Rågeleje

Rågeleje is a cosy and charming seaside town situated between Tisvildeleje and Gilleleje. You'll find a traditional summer cottage area, which has provided countless happy childhood memories of visits to farms and circuses, sunset strolls along the beach, games and other fun times.

The classic beach promenade has a lovely view of the pretty striped bathing huts, and follows the coastal road along the beach by the water's edge. When the wind gets up, there are many kite- and windsurfers to watch out at sea.

In addition to the beach, the countryside around Rågeleje is also very beautiful. Sheep graze on the heather-clad hills at Heatherhill in the summer, while the steep hills are perfect for sledging in snowy weather. The cliffs are a favourite destination for paragliders all year round.

Maglehøje lies just south of Rågeleje, with 10 burial mounds from the Bronze Age and a 1.3 km path leading around them. The whole area is full of beautiful footpaths and at Rågegården you can still enjoy the beautiful garden, which was once here with rhododendron and water-lily lakes.
